

Working with Forrest Tuff the “Filmpreneur” has been the best experience as a filmmaker since moving to Atlanta. As a Director of Photography and poster designer, Forrest has the vision and skillset to make any production compete with a big budget production and you wouldn’t be able to tell the difference between the two. He’s a good listener and able to take direction well. Any producer or director that hires Forrest will be quite happy with their investment. It will make their job easier and Forrest will bring more creative input to the shot you’re looking to get. As a director, if Forrest isn’t available to DP my film, then production has to wait until his calendar is open. That’s the type of relationship any filmmaker wants to have with his DP and I’m very fortunate to have Forrest on my team whenever I’m making a film. I highly recommend Forrest.
